

Terms & Conditions Antarctica FULL DAY program 2021-2022 Season

King George Island is located at the northern end of the Antarctic Peninsula. This is one of the most remote places on earth; therefore, it is hard to reach. This unique and fascinating destination presents special challenges; it is difficult to find modern life comforts and the weather is highly unpredictable.

The Antarctica Full Day is a safe program, developed by high level professionals with over 20 years of experience in the Antarctica. However, in King George Island there are no hospitals or emergency units, therefore, DAP Antartica requires passengers to have appropriate insurance that includes medical evacuation.

To land safely, a clear sky with perfect visibility is required, that is why in many cases trips need to be postponed while waiting for adequate weather conditions or an improvement in the condition of the landing strip.

That is why having a tight schedule to do your Antarctic program it is not advisable: possible delays of several days must be considered. DAP Antartica strongly suggests that when scheduling, you consider a window of several days to gain some flexibility. Also an open air ticket for your trip back home would be a good idea to provide rescheduling flexibility.

Flying into Antarctica takes two and a half hours. First, crossing the Darwin Mountain Range, then the mythical Cape Horn, the Drake Passage, and finally arriving at King George Island in the Antarctic Peninsula. Information on weather conditions is checked via Satellite, at all times, before departure and during the flight.

Safety is essential to all operations and this is the first and most important consideration for the technical team when deciding upon the realization of any and all activities of the program. The company understands how disappointing it is for travelers to be forced to abandon their trip, that is why DAP Antartica strongly advises that all passengers carefully read these terms and conditions and purchase a trip cancellation and interruption insurance as protection against an emergency which may force them to cancel or leave the program while it is in progress.

Then, the parties may agree to keep waiting beyond the original dates established in their contract. This requires the availability of an aircraft and for all passengers to agree on waiting, or, that those who wish to wait further are willing to pay for the ticket of those travelers who decided not to fly beyond the dates established in the contract.
